November 18-22, 2003
Vancouver, British Columbia

Association of Moving Image Archivists

General Information

AMIA Registration Desk

BC Ballroom Foyer

Conference packets and additional conference information will be available at the AMIA Registration Desk beginning Monday, November 17 at 5:00 p.m. and continuing through the week:

Monday	5:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.
Tuesday - Saturday	8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

MIC Archive Directory Registration Desk

Conference Center Foyer

Publicize your collections and contribute to the field of moving image archiving by registering your organization in the MIC international on-line directory of moving image repositories. MIC volunteers will be on hand to assist you in entering information about your organization. MIC's Archive Directory will provide descriptions of archival collections, roles, audiences served, and preservation, cataloging, and programming activities. The directory will accommodate keyword searching and show dynamic graphical representations of the moving image community at a glance. Any institution holding moving image materials is eligible for a Directory entry.

MIC: Moving Image Collections is an international union catalog and portal for discovery of moving image resources for education and research which will facilitate collaborative cataloging, preservation, programming, and digitization activities. It also includes a Union Catalog, a Cataloging Utility, and an Education and Outreach Space. MIC is an AMIA-Library of Congress collaboration, with major funding from the National Science Foundation. The MIC Archive Directory Registration Desk will be open beginning Thursday, November 20 and during the following hours:

Thursday - Saturday	8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

AMIA Vendor Exhibit

BC Ballroom

The ever-popular AMIA vendor exhibits will be open throughout the day on Thursday, November 20 and Friday, November 21. Breakfasts and refreshment breaks also will be hosted in this room. The schedule for the vendor exhibits will be:

Thursday	7:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Friday	7:30 a.m. - 4:15 p.m.

Hotel Information

Fairmont Hotel Vancouver

The Fairmont Vancouver Hotel is located in downtown Vancouver, the commercial center of British Columbia. In spite of being the fastest growing city in North America, Vancouver is picturesque - surrounded by snow-capped peaks on one side and the Bay on the other. The Hotel is located in the heart of this very walkable city, with plenty of restaurants, theaters, museums and, of course, the Robson Street shopping area.

The special AMIA rate is $179 CAN (plus tax) for a standard room - single or double occupancy. Let the reservation desk know you are with AMIA to receive the rate, and to be counted as part of the AMIA group. The Fairmont Hotel Vancouver is at the following:

Fairmont Hotel Vancouver
900 West Georgia Street
Vancouver, BC V6C 2W6
Hotel Reservations: 604.684.3131
Email: hvcreervations@fairmont.com
Global Reservation Center: 800.441.1414

All individual reservations must be guaranteed with a non-refundable advanced payment for the first night's room and tax. All advanced payments are non-refundable and will be forfeited if a cancellation or no show occurs.

Ongoing Conference Events

Poster Displays

The poster display is designed to provide the moving image archival community with an opportunity to advertise pertinent projects, papers, and research. Posters communicate efficiently and concisely recent findings, allowing professional colleagues and researchers an opportunity to study the information presented. Conference attendees may discuss posters with their creators one-on-one during the companion Poster Session (see page 22).

Poster displays will be held in the BC Ballroom on Thursday, November 20 and Friday, November 21, during the following hours:

Thursday	7:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Friday	7:30 a.m. - 4:15 p.m.

Documenting the Canadian Way: Continuous Public Screening

Hosted by: AV Preservation Trust and Audio-Visual Heritage Association of British Columbia
Curated by: Colin Browne, Audio-Visual Heritage Association of British Columbia

This continuous public screening, a companion to the opening plenary session (see page 10), will feature a revolving program of works by Canadian documentary filmmakers. A complete schedule will be distributed at the conference.

The continuous public screening will be located in the Tweedsmuir room beginning Thursday, November 20 and during the following hours:

Thursday - Saturday	8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
---------------------	-----------------------

Wish You Were Here? . . . An Invitation: Continuous Public Screening

Hosted by: Regional Audio-Visual Archives Interest Group
Curated by: Marion Hewitt, North West Film Archive

The Regional Audio-Visual Archives Interest Group presents a compilation of film clips from regional collections on a theme of promotion of place. This could include footage of the charms of a seaside holiday resort, a tour of the attractive amenities and fine facilities provided for citizens by a municipal authority, or the up-to-the-minute features of a commercial or new town development. (Would you wish you were there?) Clips will be edited into a compilation loop which will run continuously on a VHS viewing station.

The continuous public screening will be located in the BC Ballroom Foyer beginning Thursday, November 20 and during the following hours:

Thursday - Saturday	8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
---------------------	-----------------------

Speaker Ready-Room

The Moresby Island room is available on an ad-hoc basis for speakers to use to prepare their presentations beginning Tuesday, November 18 and during the following hours:

Thursday - Saturday	7:00 a.m. – 7:30 p.m.
---------------------	-----------------------

Special Pre-Conference Event

Copyright in a Digital World - A Practical Workshop

Fairmont Hotel Vancouver - Saturna Ballroom

Monday, November 17, 2003

9:00am - 4:30 pm

Hosted by: Canadian Heritage Information Network and Online Computer Library Corporation

Chair: Tom Clareson, OCLC

Presenters: Linda Tadic, ArtSTOR

Rina Pantalony, CHIN

Lolly Gasaway, University of North Carolina

Georgia Harper, University of Texas

Maria Pallante-Hyun, Pallante-Hyun LLC

Rachelle Browne, Smithsonian Institution

The Canadian Heritage Information Network (CHIN), OCLC Canada, OCLC Western, and OCLC's Digital Collection & Preservation Services invite you to participate, free of charge, in "Copyright in A Digital World - A Practical Workshop." This day-long workshop will be held in conjunction with the AMIA conference.

The workshop addresses the complex issues surrounding copyright from both the Canadian and U.S. perspective. Topics include: "Copyright Basics in a Digital Age," "Get It Down in Writing: Institutional and Policy Issues," "Identifying Your Copyright Assets," "What Can I Do and How Safe Is It?," and "The Permissions Process." A case study provides participants with the opportunity to work through issues addressed by the speakers. A Web-based Resource Kit provides additional resources for use by participants and their institutions.

The program is free, but seating is limited to 150 people and pre-registration is required. Please register by contacting Amy Lytle at amy_lytle@oclc.org or by calling her at 800.878.5848 x 5212. Registration deadline is November 1, 2003.

Tuesday - November 18, 2003

9:00 a.m. – 5:30 p.m.

Saturna

Film Technology Workshop

Hosted by: Eastman Kodak Company, Hollywood
Chair/Presenter: Alan J. Masson, Eastman Kodak Company
Presenters: Richard Utley, Pro-Tek Media Preservation Services
John P. Pytlak, Eastman Kodak Company

This comprehensive intermediate-level workshop will demystify the technology of color and black and white motion picture film, with particular reference to its preservation and restoration. Starting with the theory of subtractive color reproduction, workshop topics will include film manufacturing, image formation, how film works, sensitometry, the imaging chain of film stocks, analog and digital sound tracks, printing and duplication, and film asset management. The presenters are experts from Eastman Kodak Company. Comprehensive notes will be provided.

Pre-registration is required with a separate registration fee. Enrollment is limited to 100 participants. Lunch and refreshment breaks are included in the workshop fee.

9:00 a.m. – 5:30 p.m.

Vancouver Island

Cataloging Workshop

Hosted by: Cataloging Committee
Co-Chairs: Valarie Schwan, USC Moving Image Archive
Andrea Leigh, UCLA Film and Television Archive
Presenters: Ellie Wackerman, Library of Congress
Arlene Balkansky, Library of Congress
Martha Yee, UCLA Film and Television Archive
Nancy Goldman, Pacific Film Archive

This hands-on, interactive workshop is designed for beginning catalogers. Discussion will focus on the functions of catalogs, current conceptual models, and traditional standards such as MARC 21 Formats for Bibliographic, Authority, and Holdings Data and accompanying code lists; Archival Moving Image Materials: A Cataloging manual, 2nd ed. (AMIM2); Anglo-American Cataloging Rules, 2nd ed. revised (AACR2r); Library of Congress Rule Interpretations (LCRIs); the Name Authority File (NAF); Library of Congress Subject Headings (LCSH) and Subject Cataloging Manual: Subject Headings; the Moving Image Genre and Form Guide (MIGFG); and Moving Image Materials: Genre Terms (MIM).

A presentation of clips representing various types of moving image materials will include released motion pictures and television programs, amateur films, and untitled footage. Panelists and workshop participants will discuss challenges faced by these materials and how existing cataloging tools may be applied and adapted to meet them.

Pre-registration is required with a separate registration fee. Enrollment is limited to 50 participants. Lunch and refreshment breaks are included in the workshop fee.

9:00 a.m. – 10:30 a.m.

Gabriola Island

Volunteer Guidelines Task Force Meeting

Chair: Brian Graney, New Mexico State Records Center and Archives

“Lock Up Your Sons and Daughters” Screening

Hosted by: Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender Interest Group
Chair: Lynne Kirste, Academy Film Archive
Speakers: Bill Taylor, Out on Screen
Graham X. Peat, Videomatica/P3 Media Partners

You'll have a gay old time with Vancouver film programmer Bill Taylor as he presents his hilarious and thought-provoking compilation “Lock Up Your Sons and Daughters.” Using material ranging from the educational film Soapy the Germ Fighter to the infamous Gay Agenda video created to influence voters in a 1992 Oregon election, Taylor examines the historical and current dissemination of misinformation about lesbians, gay men, bisexuals, and transgendered people in moving images. The archival concerns of selecting LGBT materials to keep, preserve, catalog, and make accessible and the issue of censorship—both conscious and unconscious—will be discussed. We anticipate a lively Q&A session after the screening ends and the laughter has died down!

Pacific Cinematheque is located at 1131 Howe Street, an easy ten-minute walk from the Hotel Vancouver. Please wear your badge for admission.

Walking Directions To Pacific Cinematheque

To get to the Cinematheque, leave the Hotel on the Georgia Street side.

Basic Training Workshop

Chair/Presenter: Alan Lewis, National Archives and Records Administration

This five-hour workshop is designed for archivists, media librarians, stock footage collection staff, and preservation managers working with motion picture film and/or videotape collections who need basic information about the nature of film, film sound tracks, and videotape materials. The instructor will bring attendees "up to speed" by acquainting them with the basics of the various technologies, terminology, preservation methods, storage considerations, equipment needs, and more. First-time conference attendees will have the opportunity to informally meet others in the field who are facing similar challenges and struggling with like issues.

Pre-registration is required with a separate registration fee. Enrollment is limited to 75 participants. A light breakfast is included in the workshop fee.

9:00 a.m. – 5:30 p.m.

Metadata for Moving Images

Hosted by: Cataloging Committee and Digital Initiatives Committee

Chair/Presenter: Grace Agnew, Rutgers University Libraries

Presenters: Dan Kniesner, Oregon Health & Science University Library
TBA

This workshop provides overviews and practical instruction for Dublin Core, MPEG-7, and rights metadata. It is directed toward those wishing to build a strong metadata program, both inexperienced newcomers without a program and experienced archivists with an existing program who want to see how and why Dublin Core and MPEG-7 extend and complement their current efforts. This hands-on training will utilize the MIC/ViDe Application Profile for Dublin Core and MPEG-7 (http://gondolin.rutgers.edu/MIC/text/how/cataloging_utility.htm). This Application Profile serves as a Cataloging Utility for the Moving Image Collections (MIC) portal, building both DC and MPEG-7 records from a single schema input in a Microsoft Access database. In addition, the workshop will provide an introduction to digital rights metadata as compared with descriptive metadata in relation to providing access to moving images.

Pre-registration is required with a separate registration fee. Enrollment is limited to 75 participants. Lunch and refreshment breaks are included in the workshop fee.

9:00 a.m. – 10:30 a.m.

Mentor Breakfast

Vancouver Island

Hosted by: Education Committee and Conference Committee
Chair: Christine Figueroa, Department of Library and Information Science, UCLA

The Conference Mentoring program brings together first-time conference attendees with established AMIA members. Mentees are matched with mentors prior to the breakfast. The breakfast is an opportunity for colleagues to meet, exchange ideas and provide support and guidance to those who are attending an AMIA conference for the first time. Because an attempt is made to match mentors and mentees according to their interests, those participating in the program must sign up prior to the conference.

Pre-registration is required. Form is included in your registration materials.

Hosted by: AV Preservation Trust and Audio-Visual Heritage Association of British Columbia
Chair/Moderator: Colin Browne, Audio-Visual Heritage Association of British Columbia
Speakers: Allan King, Filmmaker
Stan Fox, Filmmaker
Alanis Obomsawin, Filmmaker
Jacques Bensimon, Canadian Government Film Commissioner and National Film Board of Canada

Canadian cinema and television in French and English long has been celebrated for its living tradition of engaged documentary filmmaking. The National Film Board and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation provided opportunities for young film artists whose social consciences and passionate searches for meaning led to committed programming and technological innovation that radically altered the nature of documentary, influencing filmmakers all around the world. This opening plenary, moderated by Colin Browne, will bring together pioneers of new forms of documentary: Allan King and Stan Fox; a current filmmaker who is pushing the boundaries: Alanis

Thursday - November 20, 2003

Obomsawin; and an historian of the process and program administrator: Jacques Bensimon, Canadian Government Film Commissioner and CEO of the National Film Board, to consider the documentary tradition and the impact of their work in shaping our view of ourselves and the world.

Producing, Collecting, and Presenting Moving Images of Indigenous Peoples:
A Dialogue: Part I

Pacific Cinematheque

Hosted by: Diversity Task Force, Regional Audio-Visual Archives Interest Group, Independent Media Interest Group, and Independent Media Arts Preservation
Organizer/Moderator: Wendy Shay, National Museum of American History, Smithsonian Museum
Co-Chairs: David Rowntree, Harry Hampton Film and Media Archive, Washington University
Brian Graney, New Mexico State Records Center and Archives
Kenneth Schlesinger, LaGuardia Community College, CUNY
Dennis Duffy, British Columbia Archives
Speakers: Dan Savard, Royal British Columbia Museum
Michael Pahn, National Museum of the American Indian
Juanita Jefferson, Lummi Nation Records and Archive Center
Huia Kopua, New Zealand Film Archive
Francine Lastufka Taylor, Alaska Moving Image Preservation Association
Mike Martz, KYUK-TV
Cecilia Martz
Barbara Cranmer, Nimpkish Wind Productions
Krisztina Laszlo, Museum of Anthropology

In response to popular demand, AMIA is dedicating an extended block of time to examining various aspects of producing, collecting, preserving, and presenting moving images of indigenous peoples. Combining the concepts outlined in four separate conference program proposals enables the presentation of a range of ideas, speakers, and images in order to promote an active dialogue about archiving historical and contemporary films and videos documenting the lives of native peoples. Speakers will include individuals (both native and non-native) who work with images of first peoples in public and government archives, native archives, and museums. Native and non-native producers of these moving image documents will also talk about the production process, with a focus on relationships with indigenous communities as well as the presentation of these films and videos. Representative moving images will be screened in conjunction with the presentation of papers and panel discussions.

Part II of this event takes place in the same location at 2:15 p.m. (see page 12).

Pacific Cinematheque is located at 1131 Howe Street, an easy ten-minute walk from the Hotel Vancouver. Please wear your badge for admission.

10:30 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.
Off-Air or Off the Wall: Perspectives on Off-Air Recording Programs in Archives

Vancouver Island

Hosted by: News and Documentary Collections Interest Group
Chair: Steve Davidson, Florida Moving Image Archive
Speakers: James Williamson, UCLA Film and Television Archive
John Lynch, Vanderbilt Television News Archive
Danilo Yanich, University of Delaware
TBA

While most archives receive materials by way of physical donations of film and video materials, others are acquiring programs through various off-air recording programs. Local news, network news, cable, international broadcasts, and other programming are among the kinds of materials being recorded in English or other languages. In some cases, off-air recording is the sole source of acquisitions, while in others it is just a part of the overall collection. Either way, even a modest program can result in thousands of hours of programs annually. This session will provide an overview of off-air recording programs and address issues including policies and procedures, history of off-air recording activities, program content, fair use, technology, formats, access, and costs.

FIRST Project Update Meeting

Chair: Nicola Mazzanti, FIRST
Speakers: Grover Crisp, Sony Pictures Entertainment
Paul Read, Paul Read Associates
Thomas Christensen, Danish Film Institute
Eddy Goray, Radio Télévision Belge de la Communauté Française

FIRST (Film Restoration & Conservation Strategies) is a project launched by the Association of European Archives with the active collaboration of the International Federation of Film Archives and multimedia, broadcasting, and telecommunications companies. The aim is to gather, organize, and diffuse information about the challenges and possibilities opened to film archives by the impact of digital technologies. After having completed a number of reports on the "state of the art" in the fields of digitization, restoration, storage, metadata, and access strategies, FIRST is working on a set of recommendations that should prove useful to archives around the world and will detail an agenda of research for the future. This meeting has been organized to share and discuss a first draft of the recommendations with AMIA members, who are invited to contribute with their opinions and expertise.

Buried Treasures: Finding a Key to Unlock the Mystery of Unlocateable Rights Holders

Chair: Sandra MacDonald, AV Preservation Trust and Canadian Television Fund
Speakers: Adrian Wood, Trans World International
Richard Lohead, Archives and Library of Canada
Eric Schwartz, Smith and Metalitz
TBA

For many audio-visual archives and researchers, the problem of access is not negotiating with rights holders, but simply locating them. At present, there does not seem to be a shared standard or consensus concerning access for material with unlocateable rights holders. Furthermore, existing risk assessment procedures used by archives tend to be ad-hoc and informal, reflecting the needs of the institution that created them. Speakers will explore current rights location practices of audio-visual archives and assess whether consensus is possible and/or advisable. This panel will seek to provide valuable guidance to audio-visual archivists by identifying common problems and highlighting progress made to resolve them.

MIC Update

Chair: Jane D. Johnson, UCLA Film and Television Archive
Speakers: Nancy Goldman, Pacific Film Archive
Dan Kniesner, Oregon Health & Science University Library
Gregory Lukow, M/B/RS Division, Library of Congress
Ed Price, Georgia Institute of Technology

MIC: Moving Image Collections is an international union catalog and portal for discovery of moving image resources for education and research which will facilitate collaborative cataloging, preservation, programming, and digitization activities. A brief history and overview of the project will be followed by an update and demonstrations of the Archive Directory, Union Catalog, and Education and Outreach Space, currently in development. Alpha site participants will present their entries and sites. Demonstrations of the public and archivist portals will show how MIC's innovative integration of its Directory, Union Catalog, and Education and Outreach Space facilitates access in new and dynamic ways. MIC is an AMIA-Library of Congress collaboration, with major funding from the National Science Foundation.

Control vs. Access:

Digital Rights Management in Educational, Broadcasting, and Internet Environments

Hosted by: Digital Initiatives Committee
Chair/Speaker: Linda Tadic, ArtSTOR
Speakers: Grace Agnew, Rutgers University Libraries
TBA

As moving images are increasingly distributed in digital formats and must be managed in accordance with copyright laws and business requirements, finding the means to control access and use of digital files has become an important consideration. While digital rights management applications are in development and use in broadcasting and web distribution, the topic is only just beginning to be addressed by the educational and non-profit communities. This session will provide an overview of recent changes in copyright law impacting digital works and mechanisms used in applying digital rights management: rights metadata standards, rights expression languages, and content protection technologies. Speakers represent the educational, broadcasting, and technical standards communities. Topics to be addressed include educational digital rights management requirements; MPEG-21; the SMPTE Descriptive Metadata Scheme; a comparison of the rights expression languages XrML and ODRL; and content protection technologies such as Digital Transmission Content Protection, TV Anytime, and Multimedia Home Platform (MHP).

There lies some confusion about exactly what happens in the projection booth, from the handling of the print to what equipment is used. The main focus of this panel will be to educate those who are not familiar with projection practices. Questions to be explored are: "What is reel to reel projection, and how are projectionists handling these prints?" "What exactly is a platter system, and what are its pros and cons?" (demystifying the "p" word, not advocating but informing). "What are aspect ratios, and why can't all theaters screen in all formats?" "What does an archivist need to know about a booth and the projection equipment BEFORE lending or sending a print for exhibition?" "How often does operator error come into play when a print appears to be damaged?" "Are there guidelines that can be followed for archival film projection?"

New Member Welcome and Orientation

Hosted by: AMIA Board of Directors
Moderator: Sam Kula, AMIA President

During this session, representatives of AMIA's Board of Directors, Committees, Interest Groups, and Task Forces will greet new AMIA members and first time conference attendees. An overview of AMIA's history and mission will be provided. The session also will provide an opportunity for newcomers to introduce themselves, to express their expectations of the conference and AMIA in general, and to share information on the kinds of moving images held in their collections. Everyone is welcome to attend!

Independent Media Interest Group Meeting

Chair: Stephen Parr, San Francisco Media Archive/Oddball Film + Video

The Independent Media Interest Group promotes the preservation and access of independent media in all forms. IMIG also organizes panels and screenings at AMIA and acts as a resource for independent media producers and archivists. Our latest project is "Film Forever" (<http://www.filmforever.org/>), a film preservation manual for amateur and independent filmmakers produced with the aid of an AMIA grant. We actively focus on all independent media, including documentary, factual, narrative, and experimental genres and analog, digital and web-based works. This year, IMIG is organizing a tribute to the late experimental filmmaker Stan Brakhage at the Archival Screening Night. Topics of our annual meeting include promotion and expansion of the "Film Forever" web-site as well as a discussion about our role in the preservation of archival and digital experimental film and video works. All AMIA members are welcome to attend and contribute. For a detailed meeting agenda, please contact the Chair.

Comparing Curricula: Programs in Moving Image Archiving and Preservation

Hosted by: Education Committee

Chair: Karen C. Lund, Library of Congress

Speakers: Ray Edmondson, Charles Sturt University and Archive Associates

Howard Besser, Tisch School of the Arts, New York University

Steven Ricci, Moving Image Archive Studies, UCLA

Karen Gracy, Department of Library and Information Science, University of Pittsburgh

David Cleveland, University of East Anglia

Paolo Cherchi Usai, George Eastman House

Over the last several years, there has been an increase in the number of educational opportunities for people interested in moving image archiving and preservation. The aim of this session is to outline the current programs and to highlight the differences between them. In addition to these “dedicated” programs, library schools around the world are beginning to recognize the importance of moving image collections and have begun to offer classes in the management of these collections. Representatives from Charles Sturt University; University of East Anglia; the L. Jeffrey Selznick School of Film Preservation; New York University; University of California, Los Angeles; and the Department of Library and Information Science at the University of Pittsburgh will be present to compare and contrast their programs by answering the same set of questions.

Hosted by: Regional Audio-Visual Archives Interest Group
Chair: Marion Hewitt, North West Film Archive
Speakers: Snowden Becker, J. Paul Getty Museum
Graham X. Peat, Videomatica/P3 Media Partners
Greg Pierce, The Orgone Archive
Karan Sheldon, Northeast Historic Film

Regional and special moving image collections, often without their own screening venues, must demonstrate a great deal of resourcefulness in providing access opportunities which will reach scattered or new audiences. It is necessary to go beyond opening the doors to the auditorium, or putting movie clips on-line, and waiting for the punters to come and get it. Take it to them! This session will focus on some of the imaginative ways in which different approaches can open up collections for the education and enjoyment of unexpected (and sometimes unsuspecting) audiences—large and small. Speakers will share their experiences in designing and delivering access, independently and in partnership, and will consider the impact on audiences, archival resources, and collection development.

Motion Picture Laboratory Procedures

Hosted by: Association of Cinema and Video Laboratories (ACVL)
Chair: Bob Lancaster, Alpha Cine Labs
Speakers: Paul Stambaugh, CFI Creative Services
Bev Wood, Deluxe Labs
Chip Wilkinson, Cineric
Russ Scheller, Summit Film Labs
John Carlson, Monaco Labs and Video

This session provides an introduction to motion picture lab procedures, past, present, and future. Each panelist has fifteen to thirty years of experience in the lab business. The intended audience is anyone unfamiliar or moderately familiar with laboratory procedures. The panel will provide attendees with a better understanding of what happens in the lab, why it happens, and how it can ultimately impact the final film product. Speakers will start by describing original negative processing and then cover timing, answer prints, show prints, internegatives, dupe negatives, and everything else that may go into a final print. They will point out both traditional and new procedures that have impacted archival and restoration issues. Panelists will muse upon burgeoning issues in archival preservation and restoration and explain what labs are doing now to address them. The session will end with a Q&A period. A very limited number of ACVL Manuals will be available for attendees after the session at the cost of $5.

Restoration and Renaissance: How New Access to Old Films Is Revitalizing Media Scholarship

Hosted by: Academic-Archival Interest Group
Chair: Dan Streible, University of South Carolina
Speakers: Jan-Christopher Horak, Hollywood Entertainment Museum
Donald Crafton, University of Notre Dame
Susan Ohmer, University of Notre Dame

Scholars will discuss how new developments in film preservation, restoration and access are affecting the teaching and study of film history and media studies. DVD releases of archival films, academic and archival interest in orphan films, high-profile restorations, new technologies for accessing rare materials, copyright legislation, and the creation of graduate programs in moving image archiving are among the projects changing scholarship. What impact is this having on film historiography? What outreach activities might archives pursue in concert with universities?

Selection and Appraisal: Regrets, We've Had a Few, But Then Again . . .

Hosted by: Education Committee
Chair: Karen Gracy, Department of Library and Information Science, University of Pittsburgh
Speakers: Dirk Tordoff, University of Alaska
Dennis Duffy, British Columbia Archives
Paul Eisloffel, Nebraska State Historical Society
Respondent: Sam Kula, Archival Consultant

This session is intended for anyone interested in the transmission of principles of selection and appraisal in the face of rapidly changing, and often conflicting, historical and cultural values. The topic is the selection and appraisal of moving images among regional archives. Panelists will discuss the field's need to develop tools for collection managers and educators. They will discuss regrets, as well as signal successes, in building significant collections and in creating documentation and guidance along the trail for the next generation. We will discuss the criteria these archives actually use to select or reject moving images. How do our decisions hold up over time? What are our "hold fast" points, and what are areas of greatest flexibility? The chair will discuss expectations of students who represent future users, managers, and curators of archives. Clips will demonstrate how accession decisions play out over time, specifically in light of new initiatives in the area of digitization and on-line access.

AMIA Distinguished Scholars Luncheon

Hosted by: Education Committee and Conference Committee
Chair: Francis Poole, University of Delaware Library
Speaker: Lisa Carter, University of Kentucky Audio-Visual Archives

At the AMIA Distinguished Scholars Luncheon, four scholarships will be awarded: the CFI Sid Solow Scholarship, the Mary Pickford Scholarship, the Rick Chace Foundation Scholarship, the Sony Pictures Scholarship, and the Kodak Fellowship in Film Preservation.

During the final fifteen minutes of the Luncheon, Lisa Carter will present a mini-travelogue, "Midwest Holiday: Minneapolis, MN." AMIA is going to Minneapolis, MN in 2004. Some of you might be thinking, "Minneapolis in November?" Bring your sense of adventure and come along for a preview of what the Twin Cities have to offer conference-goers. The presentation will feature the fun things to do and see in Minneapolis immediately around the AMIA conference hotel, including photos of the hotel, potential theater venues, and some nearby eateries. The home of "A Prairie Home Companion," Prince, and Mary Tyler Moore, situated in the heart of the land of 10,000 (actually, 15,291) lakes, Minneapolis is waiting for you!

Digital Migration: Why Does Data Go West?

Hosted by: Preservation Committee and Digital Initiatives Committee
Chair: Ian Gilmour, ScreenSound Australia
Speakers: Serge Houde, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation
Carl Fleischhauer, Library of Congress
Richard Wright, British Broadcasting Corporation

An expert panel will discuss options and strategies for data storage and migration for long-term business support. Speakers will present an overview of the main concepts, including the importance of metadata standards and supported formats and the layered approach to managing complex audio-visual storage systems, sometimes referred to as the “view path.” They will explain the key concepts behind automated data migration and will highlight the technological support needed to ensure sustainable digital archives over the long term. Presentations will focus upon high-level concepts rather than technical details, but practical examples will be included. Only a basic knowledge of audio-visual archiving principles is required.

More With Less: International Strategies for Managing With Limited Resources

Hosted by: International Outreach Task Force
Co-Chairs: Ray Edmondson, Archive Associates
Sam Kula, Archival Consultant
Speakers: Nancy Marrelli, Archives, Concordia University
Violet Matangira, National Archives of Zimbabwe
Kannika Chivapakdee, Museum and Archive, Public Relations Department of Thailand
Bounchao Phichit, National Film Archive and Video Center, Laos

All archives have to balance conflicting demands for preservation and access. Archives with limited resources face these pressures a little more intensely. There are fewer staff members to deploy and fewer dollars to buy outside services. In many countries there are severe restrictions on foreign exchange that prevent the purchase of equipment and supplies. Management principles for moving image archives remain the same for “rich” and “poor” archives, but practice needs to be adapted to operational realities. To provide an international perspective, speakers from archives in several countries will describe how they carry out their mission, finding imaginative approaches to storage under less than ideal conditions, technical and intellectual processing, and public service with basic viewing equipment.

Hosted by: Small Gauge and Amateur Film Interest Group
Chair: Snowden Becker, J. Paul Getty Museum
Speakers: Brian Graney, New Mexico State Records Center and Archives
Andrew Lampert, Anthology Film Archives
Karen Shopsowitz, National Film Board of Canada

On 8/16/03, local organizers in cities and towns across the U.S. and Canada will make venues and equipment available for members of the public to view and share their home movies on film as part of Home Movie Day 2003. The goals of HMD2003 are to raise awareness of the value of home movies as cultural heritage; to promote understanding of film preservation issues, especially those involved with the transfer of films to video or digital media; and to encourage owners of these materials to cherish them and plan wisely for their future use and care. Speakers will present their experiences as local Home Movie Day organizers, tell amateur film preservation success stories, and share home movie gems from the event.

Preserving the Authenticity of Digital Records: Moving Images and the InterPARES Project

Saturna

Chair: Luciana Duranti, University of British Columbia
Speakers: James Turner, Université de Montréal EBSI
Terry Eastwood, University of British Columbia
Babak Hamidzadeh, University of British Columbia

The InterPARES Project began in 1999 with the purpose of developing the theoretical and methodological knowledge essential to the permanent preservation of authentic digital records and to formulate model policies, strategies, and standards capable of ensuring that preservation. Its first phase, which was concluded in 2001, produced requirements and methods for the creation, maintenance, selection, and preservation of authentic digital records, mostly generated in the course of administrative activities. The second phase, which began in 2002, studies records created in the course of artistic, scientific, and e-government activities. Moving images are therefore a primary focus of the on-going research, which involves specialists from the film and computer industries, archivists, and film scholars. This session will present the findings of the first phase of InterPARES that are relevant to the preservation of the authenticity of digital moving images and will describe case studies that are being carried out in the second phase to meet the challenge of the authentic preservation of digital moving image records.

Archiving Ads: Serious Fun

Vancouver Island

Chair/Speaker: Wendy Shay, Archives Center, National Museum of American History, Smithsonian Institution
Speakers: Laura Jenemann, J. Walter Thompson
Jessica Berman-Bogdan, Footagefinders
Lee Shoulders, Getty Images/Archive Films

Advertising was the engine behind the development of television programming. Often the television commercials were more memorable than the programs they paid for. Jingles and slogans from popular commercials enter the popular culture, sometimes outliving the product being advertised. This session will be a follow-up to last year's session "On The Bubble," which examined how corporate archives treat and use their historic television commercials. The panel will explore issues concerning the preservation and use of television commercials held by public and commercial archives. The role of the ad agency also will be explored. Speakers will include an ad agency archivist, an archivist from a public archives with a large collection of television commercials, a representative from a stock footage library, and a rights clearance specialist.

Say it With Music: The Sounds of Silents

Chair: Oksana Dykyj, Concordia University
Speakers: Dennis Doros, Milestone Film & Video
Jon Mirsalis
Erich Sargeant, British Film Institute

Once the restoration/preservation work is done for a silent film, music is the next most important and expensive aspect in its proper presentation and distribution. With a rebirth of live performances around the world and new outlets such as DVD and specialized classic cable stations, a proper musical score has become a vital part of the decision-making process.

Panelists will present personal perspectives and discuss the various aspects and current practices in the process of bringing musical accompaniment to silent film. A silent film music composer/accompanist will discuss the creative process from research to performance and will speak about the experience of live performances. A film/video distributor and a representative from an archive will detail the legal, financial, and artistic considerations in the restoration and/or commission of musical tracks for commercial distribution. Finally, significant archiving and programming issues will be brought up from an archivist's point of view.

Chair: Stephen Parr, San Francisco Media Archive/Oddball Film + Video
Speakers: Jon Gartenberg, Gartenberg Media Enterprises, Inc.
Tamao Nakahara, University of California, Berkeley
Rachael Stoeltje, Kinsey Institute

Among archivists who recognize the importance of sexually-explicit products of moving image culture, many are daunted from working with them by the restrictions, censure, and stigmatization so closely associated with them. The film programmers, exhibitors, and archivists who are presenting these films in new contexts are challenging the restrictive climate for collection and preservation through public access and outreach, most immediately through their advocacy of the value of such marginalized material. In a continuation of last year's Dirty Movies session, our panelists will screen materials of a sexual nature and discuss their experiences in exhibiting these films, their successes in finding new venues and audiences for them, and the restrictions encountered in this enterprise.

Pacific Cinematheque is located at 1131 Howe Street, an easy ten-minute walk from the Hotel Vancouver. Please wear your badge for admission. Please see page 6 for walking directions.

Chair: John Lynch, Vanderbilt Television News Archive
Speakers: Marshall Breeding, Jean and Alexander Heard Library, Vanderbilt University
Steve Davidson, Florida Moving Image Archive
Dwight Swanson, Northeast Historic Film
Tim Kittleson, UCLA Film and Television Archive

In this time of shrinking budgets, both federal and private, as a result of the poor economy, an archivist's ability to raise funds is more important than ever. The panelists have been successful fundraisers, each with a personal, recent experience. They will discuss their methods of identifying the archival task that both needs funding and is grant fundable, identifying the organizations that would be interested in the project, learning the systems used by those funding organizations, developing and writing a good proposal, and finally administering the project in such a way as to make sure the next proposal is not unwelcome.

WGBH Archives has created a model project incorporating universal access technologies to enhance access to moving image content for people with visual and hearing disabilities. A panelist from WGBH will demonstrate The Ten O'Clock News project, which incorporates Closed Captioning and Descriptive Video into streaming content. This project collects African American news stories from a nightly news program produced by WGBH between 1974 and 1993. Session panelists representing the deaf and blind communities will give a brief overview of the Americans with Disabilities Act and its application for libraries, archives, and museums. Panelists also will evaluate The Ten O'Clock News web-site for its effectiveness and usefulness as a model for other archives to consider.

The Changing Landscape for American Libraries and Film Archives

Chair: Steve Leggett, National Film Preservation Board, Library of Congress
Speakers: David Francis, Retired Chief, M/B/RS Division, Library of Congress
Abby Smith, Council on Library and Information Resources
Gregory Lukow, M/B/RS Division, Library of Congress

In 1993, the Library of Congress' National Film Preservation Board brought together the film community to study the state of American film preservation. The resulting Film Preservation 1993 has set the American public policy agenda for film preservation over the past decade and has become a model for preservationists in other fields. This expert panel will assess the changing film preservation environment in the decade after the Library of Congress planning effort and will offer a comparison with the state of preservation for other research materials in American institutions. Concluding the presentation will be a report on the status of "The National Film Preservation Act of 2003," legislation to extend federal funding for the National Film Preservation Board and Foundation. This will be a broad-based program, accessible to a wide range of conference-goers.
