The UBC School of Library, Archival and Information Studies initiated the project International Research on Permanent Authentic Records in Electronic Systems (InterPARES) under the directorship of UBC faculty members Luciana Duranti and Terry Eastwood. The project, which was completed in 2006, is a large multinational, collaborative, and interdisciplinary research project dealing with the long-term preservation of authentic electronic records. The research goal of InterPARES is to develop the theoretical and methodological knowledge essential to the permanent preservation of authentic records generated or maintained electronically and also to formulate model policies, strategies, and standards capable of ensuring that preservation.
